

Students for Education in Pennsylvania (SEPA) Information

Dear Chief School Administrator,

We'd like to introduce ourselves and make you aware of an opportunity for your high school students to contribute to education policymaking in the Commonwealth. The Pennsylvania State Board of Education includes two high school students as non-voting, advisory members. We serve as the Board's current high school student representatives, and our current mission is to establish an ongoing collaboration with dedicated Pennsylvanian students to better represent the collective student perspective in education policymaking. We also desire to create a more transparent platform between the State Board of Education and students across the state.

To accomplish our mission, we created Students for Education in Pennsylvania (SEPA) – regional networks of geographically diverse students that meet on a regular basis to discuss education policies and student life. Our mission can only be accomplished with the help of students across Pennsylvania. In the past, we had a specific quota of the number of students you can nominate, but we have taken away this restriction. Therefore, we ask that you nominate your most dedicated, driven high school students to contribute their unique voice to the SEPA Program.

To complete the nomination process, please ask the selected members of your student body to complete this Google Form. More details will be sent to each student after they complete the form.

You are welcome to contact either of us with questions or concerns:

Naina Bhatia (Junior Student Member, State Board of Education):

We appreciate and thank you for your support in expanding this representative system, and we look forward to working with your students to represent and amplify student voice in Pennsylvania education!

Sincerely,
